ASK ME NOT TO DRINK.

Fair lady, ask me not to drink
  A toast to thee to-night;
For broken vows and blasted hopes
  Expose the demon's blight.
Put back the wine—I dare not taste—
  Put back the sparkling bowl;
For who hath quaffed a draught so deep,
  And reached a blissful goal?

Oh! ask me not, there lies within
  A poison deep and dire!
And every drop but serves the more
  To fan the latent fire.
Each draught will quench my sense of guilt,
  And blast youth's building hope;
Each drop will sink me deeper still,
  In moral night to grope.

Oh! press me not to touch the cup,
  Within are glaring eyes,
And starving widows, hungry babes,
  And freezing orphans' cries;
Whom the gods destroy they first make drunk,
  Then ask me not to drink;
Oh, tempt me not, but spare my soul
  From death's eternal brink.

I have three sisters, mildly fair,
  Like angels round my way;
Whose love is like the stars that shine
  With undiminished ray;
Shall they be doomed to see me fall
  A prey to maddening drink,
And sundered be the love that binds
  Or snapt the golden link?

Another sleeps where sadly wave
  The willows in the vale;
And midnight whispers from the sky,
  Come on the sighing gale;
She passed away as summer's breath,
  In life's incipient bloom;
Then tempt me not; I would not mar
  Her slumbers in the tomb.

A WOMAN IN WHITE.

Notice to Passengers on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad.

We copy the following article from the Railroader, published in Cincinnati. The train referred to is the Fast Line, and the location of the scene is somewhere between Huntingdon and McVeytown. Should there be a desire, hereafter, to travel east on this train, we shall know the reason why:

"The information we are now about to impart will be received with pleasure by all the passengers on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad who leave Pittsburg on the 10.30 P. M. train for the East.

Now we don't pretend to say that there is not more than ONE "woman in white;" in fact, we think there is a large number of them if they could only be seen. Just THERE is the rub. However, they can be seen now and then. When we do see them, we ought to perpetuate their memory in poetry and prose. We propose to do the latter.

It is well known that the Pennsylvania Central Railroad crosses the "blue Juniata" river; that in crossing, the train moves very slowly; that upon the Eastern bank of the river there stands a house; that said house stands somewhat lower than the bed of the railroad track; that the car windows and the window in the second story of the said house are about on a level. If the above facts are not known to the majority of Eastern travelers, we now give it out so they may no longer remain ignorant of some very important truths, points upon which hang our story.

If it is not known, we will now state that the 10.30 P. M., train out of Pittsburg, crosses the Juniata river at about 5 A. M. the next morning, and in the month of May or June it is a lovely hour. The cool breezes from the valley are fresh and invigorating, and the traveler, after being shut up in a close car over night, is refreshed by poking his head out of his window in quest of air and sights. And now we come to the gist of what we have long tried to say, that if the traveler on the road and train referred to, will keep his eyes open at the point indicated, he will see in the aforesaid second story window, a real "WOMAN IN WHITE," lovelier by far than Wilkie Collins. Her couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly, yet a thousand times too fast, a vision of perfect loveliness opens up to the enraptured gaze. The mind wanders off into fairy lands and is only brought to its sense by the engineer whistling to the brakeman to let go his brakes.

We advise all old men and boys not to look too long else they might lose their sight. We warn married men not suddenly to become enraptured with the scenery along the Pennsylvania Central and go this route and none other, though it is out of their way.

If, on the first of the year, Mr. Gwinner has found that his travel has increased one hundred per cent., we now speak for the credit, because the cause for such an increase could be traceable but to one thing; anxiety to see a "WOMAN IN WHITE."

EDITORS IN FRANCE.—We have some idea of emigrating to the French Capital. A late correspondent from that sensible city says that an editor has a fine time of it there. He is furnished a carriage to ride in, and, in "addition, but little work is expected of him, for he passes the greater part of his time in smoking cigars and in talking, and if he writes an article or two a week, he thinks himself wonderfully industrious." Only think, brother editors, of those fragrant Havanas and delightful French conversations, the man of the tripod lolling, meanwhile, on silk and damask! But then we have our compensations. If we can not afford to indulge in the "best Havana" and the chaise, we are not afraid to lash political scoundrels in high places, lest we should be "warned" once, twice, three times and sent off to jail, and fined to a ruinous extent by a censor of the press.

Oriental Apothegms.

As by repeated efforts a stone is mounted upon the summit of a hill and instantly thrown down; so may we ourselves, by our virtues and our vices, be elevated or cast down.

He is a wise man who knoweth that his words should be suited to the worthiness of the object, and his anger, according to his strength.

No one is, by nature noble, respected of any one, nor a wretch. His own actions conduct him either to wretchedness, or to the reverse.

The non-commencement of anything from the fear of offense, is the mark of a weak man. Who, brother, leaveth off eating entirely, from the dread of indigestion.

In misfortune, in error, and when the time appointed for certain affairs is about to elapse, a servant, who has his master's welfare at heart, ought to speak unasked.

The qualification by which a man earneth his bread, and for which he is celebrated in the world, should be nourished and improved.

The man whose heart is tainted with fear, although profuse of speech, in the presence of the king, amongst learned men, or in the company of women well inclined for a husband, is a coward.

Sovereigns have occasion even for straws and things to rub the teeth, or pick the ear; but how much more for an able speaker, and a dextrous obviator of difficulties.

Although a gem may tumble at the feet, and a piece of glass be worn upon the head, yet, at the season of buying and selling, glass is glass, and gems are gems.

It should not be suspected of a man whose life hath been spent in noble deeds, that his reason is lost when he is only involved in trouble. A fire may be overturned, but its flame will never descend.

Servants and houses should be suited to the situation. A gem should not be placed at the feet. The same is to be understood of an able man.

What wise men have declared proper, may be received even from a child. When the fun is invincible, how useless is the appearance of a lamp?

By the touchstone of misfortune, a man discoverth the quality of wife, relations, and servants; and of his own strength and judgment.

The tempest never rooteth up the grass, which is feeble, humble, and shooteth not up on high, but exerteth its power even to distress the lofty trees; for the great use not their might, but upon the great.

Skilful men make falsehood look like truth; and those acquainted with the painter's art make an even surface appear uneven.

In gratifying the wishes of men of vicious principles, when shall we find improvement, happiness and purity? If the tree be poisonous, the fruit is unwholesome, although sprinkled with the water of immortality.

He who doth not wish another's ruin, should, even unasked, speak to him for his good. This is a supreme duty, and the contrary is the opinion of bad men!

He is kind who guardeth another from misfortune; that is an action which is free from impurity; she is a woman who can command herself; he is a worthy person who is much respected by good men; he is a minister who doth not behave with insolence and pride; he is happy who is forsaken by his passions; that is friendship which is not feigned; he is a man who doth not suffer his members and faculties to give him uneasiness.

He who hath riches hath friends, he who hath riches hath relations; he who hath riches is a man of consequence in the world; he who hath riches is esteemed a learned man.

The house of the childish is empty; and so is the heart of him who hath no wife. The mind of the fool is empty; and every thing is empty where there is poverty.

The fate of a man of feeling is, like that of a tuft of flowers, two-fold; he may either mount upon the head of all, or go to decay in the wilderness.

A PITHY SERMON TO YOUNG MEN.—You are architects of your own fortunes. Rely upon your own strength of body and soul. Take for your motto, Self Reliance, Honesty, and Industry. For your star, Faith, Perseverance, and Pluck, and inscribe on your banner, "Be just and fear not." Don't take too much advice; keep at the helm, and steer your own ship. Think well of yourselves. Strike out. Fire above the mark you intend to hit. Assume your position. Do not practice excessive humility; you can't get above your level. Water don't run up hill; put potatoes in a cart over a rough road, and small potatoes will go to the bottom. Energy, Invincible Determination, with a right motive, are the levers that move the world. The great art of commanding is to take a fair share of the work. Civility costs nothing and buys everything. Don't drink. Don't smoke. Don't chew. Don't swear. Don't gamble. Don't lie. Don't steal. Don't deceive. Don't tattle. Be polite. Be generous. Be kind. Study hard. Be in earnest. Be self-reliant. Read good books. Love your fellow-man, as well as God. Love your country, and obey the laws. Love truth. Love virtue. Always do what your conscience tells you to be a duty, and leave the consequence with God. —H. G. Eastman.

☞A man advertised for a wife, and requested each candidate to inclose her carte de visite. A spirited young lady wrote to the advertiser in the following terms:—"Sir, I do not enclose my carte, for though there is some authority for putting a cart before a horse, I know of none for putting one before an ass."

Mournful Close of the Career of Four World-Heroes.

It is a remarkable fact that the career of four of the most renowned characters that ever lived, closed with some mournful and violent death.

Alexander, after having climbed to the dizzy heights of ambition, and, with his temples bound with chaplets dipped in the blood of countless nations, looked down upon a conquered world, and wept that there was not another city for him to conquer, set a city on fire, and died in a scene of debauch.

Hannibal, after having, to the astonishment and consternation of Rome, passed the Alps, after having put to flight the armies of the mistress of the world, and stripped three bushels of gold rings from the fingers of her slaughtered knights, and made her foundation quake, fled from his country, being cursed by one of those who exultingly united his name to that of God, and called him Hanni Baal, died at last by poison administered by his own hand, unlamented, unwept, in a foreign land.

Cæsar, after having conquered eight hundred cities, and dyed his clothes in the blood of one million of his foes; after having pursued to death the only rival he had on earth, was miserably assassinated by those he considered his nearest friends, and in that very place the attainment of which had been his greatest ambition.

Bonaparte, whose mandate kings and emperors obeyed, after having filled the earth with the terror of his name, deluged it with blood, and clothed the world with sackcloth, closed his days in lonely banishment—almost literally exiled from the world, yet where he could sometimes see his country's banner waving over the deep, but which could not or would not bring him aid.

Thus, four great men, who, from the peculiar situation of their portraits, seemed to stand the representatives of all whom the world calls great—those four, who each in turn made the earth tremble to its centre by their simple tread, severally died—one by intoxication, or, some suppose, by poison mingled in wine; one a suicide; one murdered by his friends, and one in lonely exile.

A Cheerful Heart.

I once heard of a young lady say to an individual: "Your countenance to me is like the rising sun; for it always gladdens me with a cheerful look." A merry and cheerful countenance was always one of the things which Jeremy Taylor said his enemies and persecutors could not take from him. There are some persons who spend their lives in this world as they would spend their lives if shut up in a dungeon. Everything is made gloomy and forbidding. They mourning and complaining from day to day that they have so little, and are constantly anxious lest what little they have will escape their hands. They look always upon the dark side, and can never enjoy the good that is present for the evil that is to come. That is no religion. Religion maketh the heart cheerful; and when its large and benevolent principles are exercised, men will be happy in spite of themselves. The industrious bee does not complain that there are so many poisonous flowers and thorny branches in his road, but buzzes on, selecting the honey where he can find it and passes quietly by the place where it is not. There is enough in this world to complain about and find fault with, if men have the disposition. We often travel on a hard uneven road; but with a cheerful spirit we may walk therein with comfort, and come to the end of our journey in peace.—Dr. Deuey.

A CHILD'S LAUGHTER.—Is there anything like the ringing laugh of an innocent child? Can any other music so echo in the heart's inner chambers? It is sympathetic, too, beyond all other melodies. When the father sits absorbed over his book, which seems to concentrate every faculty, he hears his little boy laughing in his sport, and laughs also, he knows not wherefore. The bright being, constantly gathering intelligence, casts around us gems of thought and pearls of affection, till our paths seem paved with precious stones from Heaven's treasury. No day of storm is dark where he is—no wintry evening long. A young child is a full fountain of delight to the house and heart.

☞A story is told of a young wife, who is unfortunate enough to have a husband that frequently comes home rather the worse for liquor. Wishing for a sewing machine, and being quite certain that he would not buy one for her, she resorted to strategy. When he came home intoxicated, she abstracted money from his pockets, after he had gone to bed, and finally got together enough to purchase the coveted machine. The husband was somewhat curious to learn where she obtained it, and greatly surprised when she produced a memorandum book, showing the dates when the money was abstracted and the amounts taken. Perhaps other ladies who read this may profit by the example.

OVERWORK AND UNDERWORK.—"While overwork," says a medical writer, "is a great evil from which one class of society suffers, another class suffers still more from underwork or idleness. Better wear out than rust out, if it is done in a good cause, for then some good will be accomplished, and humanity will be better for it. But the true course is to avoid both extremities and pursue the evil tenor of a happy medium. By so doing, a far greater amount of labor can be accomplished, at less expense of health, strength and vitality."

Jim Wolfe and the Tom Cats.

I knew by the sympathetic glow upon his bald head—I knew by the thoughtful look upon his face—I knew by the emotional flush upon the strawberry on the end of the old free liver's nose, that Simon Wheeler's memory was busy with the olden time. And so I prepared to leave, because all these were symptoms of a reminiscence—signs that he was going to be delivered of another of his tiresome personal experiences—but I was too slow; he got the start of me. As nearly as I can recollect, the infliction was couched in the following language:

"We was all boys, then, and didn't care for nothing only how to shirk school and keep up a revivin' state of devilment all the time. This Jim Wolfe I was talking about, was the 'prentice, and he was the best hearted feller, he was, and the most forgivin' and onselfish I ever see—well, there couldn't be a more bullier boy than what he was, take him how you would; and sorry enough I was when I seen him for the last time.

"Me and Henry was always pestering him and plastering hoss bills on his back and putting bumble-bees in his bed, and so on, and sometimes we'd crowd in and bunk with him, not'thstanding his growling, and then we'd let on to get mad and fight acrost him, so as to keep him stirred up like. He was nineteen, he was, and long and lank, and bashful, and we was fifteen and sixteen, and tolerably lazy and worthless.

"So, that night, you know, that my sister Mary gave me the candy pullin', they started us off to bed early, so as the company could have full swing, and we rung in on Jim to have some fun.

"Our winder looked out onto the roof of the ell, and about ten o'clock a couple of old tom cats got to rairin' and chargin' around on it and carryin' on like sin. There was four inches of snow on the roof, and it was froze so that there was a right smart crust of ice on it, and the moon was shining bright, and we could see them cats like daylight. First, they'd stand off, and e-yow-yow-yow, just the same as if they was a cussin' one another, you know, and bow up their backs and bush up their tails, and swell around and spit, and then all of a sudden the gray cat he'd snatch a handful of fur off the yallar cat's ham, and spin him around, like the button on a barn door. But the yaller cat was game, and he'd come and clinch, and the way they'd gouge, and bite, and howl, and the way they'd make the fur fly was powerful.

"Well, Jim, he got disgusted with the row and 'lowed he'd climb out there, and shake 'em off'n that roof. He hadn't reely no notion of doin' it likely, but we everlastingly dogged him and bullyragged him, and 'lowed he'd always bragged how he wouldn't take a dare, and so on, till bimeby he histed the winder, and lo and behold you, he went—went exactly as he was—nothin' on but a shirt, and it was short. You ought to a seen him! You ought to seen him creepin' over that ice, and diggin' his toe nails and his finger nails in for to keep him from slippin'; and, 'bove all, you ought to seen that shirt a flappin' in the wind, and them long, ridicklous shanks of his'n a glistenin' in the moonlight.

"Them compn'y folks was down there under the eaves—the whole squad of 'em under that ornery shed of dead Wasn'ton Bower vines—all sett'n round about two dozen sassers of hot candy, which they'd sot in the snow to cool. And they was laughin' and talkin' lively; but bless you, they didn't know nothin' 'bout the panorama that was goin' on over their heads. Well, Jim, he went a sneakin' and a sneakin' up, unbeknowns to them tom cats—they was a swishin' their tails and yowyowin', and threatenin' to clinch, you know, and not payin' any attention—he went a sneakin' and a sneakin' right up to the comb of the roof, till he was 'in a foot and a half of 'em, and then all of a sudden he made a grab for the yaller cat! But, by gosh, he missed fire and slipped his holt, and his heels flew up and he flopped on his back and shot off'n that roof like a dart!—went a smashin' and crashin' down thro' them old rusty vines, and landed right in the dead centre of all them comp'ny people—sot down like a yearthquake in them two dozen sassers of red hot candy, and let off a howl that was hark from the tomb. Them girls—well, they left, you know. They see he wasn't dressed for comp'ny, and so they left. All done in a second; it was just one little war whoop, and a whish! of their dresses, and blame the wench of 'em was in sight anywhere!

"Jim, he was in sight. He was gormed with the bilin' hot molasses candy clean down to his heels, and had more busted sassers hangin' to him than if he was an Injun princess—and he came a prancin' up stairs just a whoopin' and a cussin', and every jump he'd give he'd shed some china, and every squirm he fetched he dripped some candy!

"And blistered! Why, bless your soul, that poor cretur couldn't reely set down comfortable for as much as four weeks."

In Search of a Retail Store.

A green-appearing genius, on his first visit to Boston, observed a sign over a store thus: "Wholsale and Retail Store." He worked his way through the crowd of ladies until he faced one of the clerks who was exhibiting some article to a young lady, when he broke out:

"Say Mister, who's boss here?"

"The proprietor has just stepped out, sir."

"Well, is this a retailing store?"

"Yes, sir, a wholesale and retail store."

"Guess you understand your trade?"

"Oh yes," replied the clerk, wrapping up a bundle for his lady customer, "what can I do for you?"

"Well, as the cold weather is coming on, I thought I mought as well come and give you a job."

"I don't understand you sir," replied the clerk, who began to think the fellow had got into the wrong box.

"Zactly so; well I'll tell you."

"Explain what you mean, my friend," said the clerk, as he saw him produce a bundle from under his coat.

"Well, as I said before, the cold weather's coming on, and I thought I might as well be fixin' for it. Come mighty near freezin' tother winter, tell you I did; but ——"

"I hope you will tell what you want, so I may serve you."

"Certainly, Squire, certainly; I always do business in a hurry; and just as quick as the old master will let you I want you to retail these old shirts—let 'em come down about to the knees, kase I don't wear drawers."

The effect can be imagined, but, as the novelists say, can't be described.

The loud burst of laughter which followed served to convince the poor fellow that he had committed himself, and his long legs were soon put in motion for the door.

BASE BALL.—Base ball clubs are all the rage now-a-days. Our friend "Jeemes" thought of attaching himself to the Quaker City Club, and would doubtless have sent in his name had it not been for the fact that his friend John has now an eye draped in mourning, caused by catching the ball on his peeper instead of in his hands, and hearing the following colloquy between an enthusiastic admirer and player of the game of base ball and a gent whose regard for his personal comfort led him to eschew such unruly sports, as he termed them:

"What is the matter with your finger?"

"Struck with a ball and drove up, but it is a noble game," was the reply.

"Precisely—and your thumb is useless, is it not?"

"Yes, struck with a ball and broken."

"That finger joint?"

"A ball struck it. No better game to improve a man's physical condition—strengthens one's sinews."

"You walk lame; that foot, isn't it?"

"No. It's the—the—the—well, a bat flew out of a player's hand and hit my knee-pan. He had the innings."

"One of your front teeth is gone."

"Knocked out by a ball-an accident."

"Your right hand and your nose have been peeled—how's that?"

"Slipped down at second base—only a mere scratch."

"And you like this kind of fun?"

"Glory in it, sir. It is the healthiest game in the world, sir."

TEACHING DRAWING.—Mr. W. is one of our most popular artists and teachers of drawing. The other morning, while busily at work, he was interrupted by a rough looking customer.

"Be you Mr. W., the painter?"

"I am sir."

"You teach creeters, I believe?"

"Yes, sir," replied the artist, who fancied his visitor some wealthy old farmer; "do you wish your daughter to take a few lessons?"

"No sir, not my darter."

"Your son, perhaps?"

"No, not my son, neither?"

"Who, then, not yourself I hope?"

"No, not myself, but somebody a very durned sight more difficult. A four year old heifer mule I bought t'other day. Learn him to draw, and durn me if I don't out with the pewter and give you the biggest hundred dollars you ever seed."

The countryman went down stairs with a hop, skip and jump, closely followed by an old pair of boots, meerschaum pipe and sundry other moveables.

BAD COMPANY.—Lawyers, although generally pretty cute, are no match for the ladies. Dimity takes as naturally to wit as a lawyer does to his client's pocket book. A lawyer, driving through the town of Worcester, stopped at a cottage to inquire his way. The lady of the house told him he must keep on straight for some time, then turn to the right; but said that she herself was going to pass the road he must take, and that if he would wait a few moments till she could get her horse ready she would show him the way. "Well," said he," bad company is better than none; make haste." After jogging on for five or six miles, the gentleman asked if he had not come to the road he must take. "Oh, yes!" said she, "we have passed it two or three miles back; but I thought bad company was better than none, so I kept you along with me."

☞Says Fanny Fern: "I am fifty-five, and I feel half the time as if I was just made." So do a great many of our ladies, and they keep the millinery shops going too. It's all right, bless the dear creatures!

AN exchange says a countryman giving his evidence in Court, was asked by the counsel if he was born in wedlock. "No, sir," he replied, "I was born in Schenectady."

WM. LEWIS,
HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

☞The Democratic County Convention of Allegheny county, held last week, refused to endorse President Johnson as a candidate of the party for re-election.

THE correspondence between Gen. Grant and President Johnson relative to the removal of Gen. Sheridan is published in the dailies of this morning. We will publish it next week.

☞We predict that if ever General Grant is a candidate for the Presidency he will be the candidate of the people outside of the two party organizations as they are now organized. Just such a candidate the interests of the whole country demand.

☞Solomon said that "there is a time to keep silence and a time to speak." The radical press think that Grant's time to speak has arrived. The Democratic press are satisfied with Grant's silence so long as he obeys the orders of the President. Thus far politicians have not been able to smoke the General out.

☞Gen. Grant, since he has taken possession of the War Department, has been doing good work in the way of "cleaning out" a large number of hangers-on, who have been receiving heavy pay for doing nothing. Grant is not the kind of man to keep around him a large family of politicians at the expense of the people. Hundreds and thousands of hangers-on should be dismissed from the Government crib, and we hope Grant will continue in the good work he has so earnestly begun.

☞If there were no Indians there would be no Indian massacres or Indian wars.

If there had been no negroes there would not have been a rebellion.

If there were no negroes in existence to-day there would be no Radical party.

If there were no negroes in the "wood-pile" the Democracy would have less capital to work with.

If there were less "spoils" than honor in the success of candidates, there would be fewer applicants for office, and less desire for success.

☞Quite a large number of gentlemen are anxious to fill the Presidential chair the next term, but at present it is impossible to even guess which of them stands the best chance. The extreme Radicals are not willing to accept of any man as a candidate who can not show an open and clear record in favor of their measures. Others of the party are willing to take any man who can be elected and will secure to them the fat offices and fat pickings. Several gentlemen of the latter school of politicians are now working hard for the inside track. With the Democrats there appears to be less anxiety as to who shall be their candidate. Grant appears to be in the way of all the candidates, and he shows no disposition to get out of their way. If the Southern States should be so reconstructed as to give the blacks the balance of power in a Presidential contest, they may claim and may secure the nomination of one of their own number for the Vice Presidency. We protest against any such reconstruction or arrangement.

POLITICAL.—The Democratic Senatorial and Representative Conferees of the districts composed of the counties of Centre, Blair, Huntingdon, Mifflin, Juniata and Perry, Senatorial; and Huntingdon, Mifflin and Juniata, Representative, met at Lewistown on Friday last, and put in nomination for Senators, S. T. Shugert of Centre and C. J. T. McIntyre of Perry, and for Representatives, John S. Miller of Huntingdon, and R. P. McWilliams of Juniata. R. Bruce Petrikin of this county, came very near being nominated on two or three ballots, and would have been, had two or three of the conferees acted in good faith. The gentlemen nominated, however, for Senators, are said to be good men and very popular in the counties where best known. For Representatives, John S. Miller is again in nomination, and Mr. McWilliams is said to be popular in his county. He served his country in the late war and was wounded.

The Republican Representative Conference will meet in Lewistown to-day, Tuesday. The only two candidates named, Harry S. Wharton of this county, and H. H. Wilson of Juniata, will be nominated. Mr. Wilson was also in the service during the late war. The Republican Senatorial Conference will meet next week. It is generally conceded that L. W. Hall of Blair will be one who will succeed in securing a nomination. Mr. McVitty from this county may get a nomination from the Conference, but we think his chances slim, as he is not the kind of man parties have been sending to Harrisburg for several years. If the Republicans do not wish to get beaten in the election of Senators they will have to put forward as candidates their best men. The Democrats have two good and strong men.

☞The people of Michigan are to vote on the absolute prohibition of the sale of liquor at their next election.

From the Patterson (N. J.) Guardian.

Horrible Cruelty to a Child.

There is living in Wynan's alley a woman named Kate Briggs, living with a man who claims to be her husband. The woman, it is stated, has served in State prison.

This Kate Briggs has a child, an interesting little girl, nine years of age, named Eliza. The treatment of this child by her mother (if she is her mother) is perfectly horrible, and scarcely credible. She ties a rope around her waist, and by this hangs her up, stark naked, and with a heavy stick beats her till her strength fails, often for half an hour at a time. It is said the child's body is covered with lashes and bruises from the treatment she has received. The cries of the little victim are piteous, and are heard by all the neighbors around. Yesterday her mother whipped her for a full half hour, and to stop her crying the neighbors said she tied a string tightly around her throat, and came very near strangling her to death. The people around protest against such inhuman treatment, but Kate Briggs says "what is her own she can do what she likes with."

It is said the little sufferer often comes running in the neighbors' houses and begs them to send her off "somewhere in the country where her mother will not get at her and kill her. "Little Eliza says her mother often wishes she was dead and out of the way; from what we can learn, she is pursuing the very course to accomplish her object. The little girl this morning is scarcely able to walk from the injuries she received yesterday.

[The editor of the Patterson Guardian and the "people" who knew that the child was receiving such brutal treatment, we think, should be put in the same boat with the "mother," for permitting for a single moment such beastly treatment of a child. They could have saved the child from a continuance of such treatment. Why did they not interfere? The editor of the Guardian should not expose himself and his "people" to the world in such an ugly picture. Certainly all who may read the horrible facts given above, will not have a very favorable opinion of a "people" of Patterson who permits such treatment of a helpless child.]

☞In the New York Constitutional Convention a proposition was under consideration restricting the combination of railroads, whereby great monopolies become intrenched in a position adverse to the public welfare. In the course of the debate one member said:

Where is New Jersey to-day? She is the creature of a railroad corporation. Where is Pennsylvania? She has sold her canals to the railroads, and they have consolidated the carrying trade into their own pockets. Her immense mineral wealth lies still hidden in the earth, kept there by the avarice of railroad consolidation and monopolies. The same thing will happen here unless some check is put upon the avarice of these great powers. If it be not done, the iron hands of the railroads will be laid upon our own canals, and the people will suffer. * * * The railroads would reach out their iron hands and grasp the entire commerce of the State, obliterating other channels of trade. They would rule the Legislature in time, and thus control the interests and destinies of the State. To day there is no want of combination sufficient to accommodate the travel of the public. Nothing more is needed, for this state of things will last while travel demands it. Go back to Pennsylvania. She once had a beautiful chain of canals that answered all her needs. In an evil day she parted with her canals. True, it was stipulated that the parties who bought them should not raise the tolls, but the railroad power went down to the Capital and broke this agreement. What is the result? In that State to-day it costs $2,20 to carry a ton of coal one hundred miles, whereas it only costs twenty cents for the same distance in this State.

A better day, through a wiser policy, is in store for Pennsylvania. Her mineral wealth and the wealth of her forests will yet be developed and find a market. The discussion which this question has had, and is having, will inevitably produce action of the right kind by the people, whose first step should be the election of a Legislature that will be devoted to their interests.—Pittsburg Commercial.

A NEW SWINDLING SCHEME.—It seems that men who are determined not to work, but live at the expense of others, have brains prolific with swindling schemes whereby to increase their pecuniary possessions. We learn of another—a disgraceful act which occurred but lately. A man said to be red-faced, red-whiskered, and pursy, with the air of a grandee, came to Philadelphia and obtained the services of about fifty Germans—who were far from being in even moderate circumstances, and then out of work—to pluck peaches for him in his extensive orchards near Delaware City Only too rejoiced to get something to do, these fifty Germans gave their consent, and a day or two since, headed by their new-found employer, entered the railroad depot, from which they were to take the train to Delaware City. Before entering the cars, our large faced but small hearted man went to each of his employees, and collected $1,25 to pay their fare as a party, he averred. This sum each gave willingly out of their magic purses, which they hoped to well replenish soon; and this individual received about $65 in all.

The train started with the party, and, when about five miles out, the conductor came for his fare. The Germans referred him to their employer; but he, to their great astonishment, was nowhere to be found. The whole party were put off the train, and after waiting long and anxiously for their quondam friend and supposed benefactor, who never came, the truth burst upon them that they had been swindled out of what little they possessed, and were many miles away from their homes, with the darkness of night all around them.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

Removal of Stanton and Sheridan.

"In a pleasant conversation of some length to-day with President Johnson, I remarked that he was charged with having removed Mr. Stanton in order to obstruct the execution of the Reconstruction acts of Congress. He asked what Mr. Stanton had to do with the execution or non-execution of these acts. These acts centred the power in the hands of General Grant, and he had placed Grant over the War Department. He could not understand how this change could be construed into a purpose to defeat the proper execution of the Reconstruction laws. The President further remarked that at one time General Grant strongly intimated that unless Mr. Stanton was removed he should be compelled to leave here, as he could be of no possible use, in view of Mr. Stanton's overbearing and dictatorial conduct. The President advised him to have a talk with the Secretary of War, and perhaps they would understand each other better. He agreed, however, with the General, that Mr. Stanton ought to be removed, and he then inquired of General Grant if he would take charge of the Department in the event of a change. The latter expressed his entire willingness to do so. I referred to the rumor that the General had eventually protested against the removal, and the President frankly said such was the case; that the General had written him a very kind but earnest private note, in which he had intimated his fears of anarchy, if not revolution, should Secretary Stanton be superseded. Yet, as he could not appreciate the General's fears on this score, he had directed the change. I then told him that the same charge was made against him for removing General Sheridan, and that many supposed his purpose was to prevent a due execution of the law. This he thought was quite as absurd as the other, as the law was the same whether Thomas or Sheridan was in command. What difference could it make who executed the law? Could any one question the ability or patriotism of Gen. Thomas? I then asked why General Sheridan was removed. Mr. Johnson said there were two good causes, but only one had been considered; the first one was rather of a personal character, and had been overlooked. The telegram of the 23d of June, which was so disrespectful to the Executive, had been claimed by General Grant to be a private telegram to himself, and that no official notice of its existence had ever yet reached the President. But the second ground for the removal of General Sheridan was the exercise of powers he did not possess, and the exercise of his legitimate powers in an arbitrary and offensive manner. I asked if he would be kind enough to designate what acts he included under the latter clause. He said that the removal of Gov. Wells was entirely uncalled for and unjustifiable. Gov. Wells had placed at Gen. Sheridan's disposal the whole civil machinery of the State to aid him in the execution of the Reconstruction acts. Nor had the latter ever indicated or pointed out a single act or word of the Governor which was calculated to embarrass him in the proper execution of his duty. On the other hand, General Sheridan had endeavored to execute the law as a partisan, and had adopted Radicalism as the only true test of loyalty. His sole purpose seemed to be to secure negro supremacy and degrade the whites, and for such conduct I deemed it my duty to relieve him from that command. I inquired if he did not think Governor Throckmorton had attempted to thwart the General in a proper execution of the law. He answered emphatically, "No. sir; the records prove the reverse. The Governor of Texas also placed the whole civil machinery of his State at the disposal of the military power, and aided it in every way possible, except in the manufacture of a radical majority of voters, and in securing negro supremacy. This was Gov. Throckmorton's sinning, and for which he was arbitrarily removed by General Sheridan." I said to the President that his views as to the proper execution of the Reconstruction acts were not clearly understood by the people, and that I would like to hear them. He answered that he could express them in a few words. He desired a fair registration of all qualified voters, without regard to race or color. He did not wish to give any advantage to the white men, but much less was he disposed to make them the slaves to the negroes. Where the negroes had the majority, as in South Carolina, he wished them to exercise the power; where the white vote was in the majority as in Texas, he desired that white majority to control. He wanted only the law to be fairly executed with equal chances to all. This was being denied them by Gen. Sheridan, and his manner and mode of acting was fast familiarizing the people with the tyranny of despotic government. I remarked that the public would not be able to understand why he struck down despotism in one department and yet suffered it to continue in another. He replied that other changes would be likely to follow very soon. A proper investigation was now being made into the conduct of one or two other commanders who, it was charged, were playing the autocrat. The President expressed the greatest apprehension as to the future of our Government, yet said he still relied on the good sense and patriotism of the people. In his speech in the United States Senate, in December, 1860, Mr. Johnson said he had denounced the the party who would break up the Government in order to preserve slavery, and he had also denounced those who would destroy the Government in order to abolish slavery; he was equally opposed to both extremes now, and his only wish was for a speedy return of fraternal relations among the States."

☞A medical journal reminds physicians that prescribing spirituous liquors should always be done with the utmost caution and judgment, remembering that while, when properly used, they may be very good servants in sickness, there is always some danger of their becoming bad masters in health. But, unfortunately, there is so much adulteration of these liquors, that it is impossible to know when they are employed what the patient is taking.

The South and the Presidential Election.

Whether the South will have any participation in the next Presidential election is more than any human being can tell just now. But it is well to note the signs of the times in relation to the matter, and that our people should be kept posted up, so that if the opportunity should be presented to them, they may, to some extent, be cognizant of political movements.

One of the most significant indications of political tendencies is to be found in the fact that the Mobile Times, a genuine conservative journal, has nominated a "Union Conservative ticket" for the Presidency and Vice Presidency of the United States. Its candidates are Gen. Ulysses S. Grant for President and Senator W. P. Fessenden for Vice President. The term "Democratic" is dropped, and "Union Conservative" substituted. And the change is a good one. The Northern Democrats have no claim as a party to the unreserved support or adhesion of the Southern Conservatives, and for the latter to support a party (if they should ever get in a position to do so) whose success is extremely doubtful, would be a sacrifice which the Democracy of the North has no right to expect. They have no claim of gratitude upon their former allies in the South, for they made common cause with the power which brought the latter into her present miserable condition They abandoned the cause of State rights, for it is not to be denied that that cause was one of the most prominent in the late sectional struggle.

It is, then, the part of wisdom on the part of the Southern people not to place any confidence in the remnant of the once powerful Democratic party of the North. It is powerless to accomplish any good as a party, and it would be merely wasting any political strength the South may have in the future to attempt to bolster it up. The honest restoration of the Union, and the support of measures for its preservation, are the only prominent issues of any value now to the Southern people. To attain these and kindred incidental measures, there must be a union or combination of Conservative men throughout the country, under the lead of some prominent man. Gen. Grant may be their chosen representative, and to him we are disposed to believe the people of the South—the Conservatives, we mean—would have no objection, for there is but little doubt he would be mighty to aid in the restoration of our distracted nationality.

Change in District Commanders—Official Orders.

WASHINGTON, August 20.—The following order was issued to-day:

GENERAL ORDER NO. 77

Headquarters of the Army
Adjutant General's Office,
Washington August 19. }

First. The following order is received from the President:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, August 17.—Major General George H. Thomas is hereby assigned to the command of the Fifth Military District, created by the act of Congress passed on the 2d day of March, 1867. Major General P. H. Sheridan is hereby assigned to the command of the Department of Missouri. Major General Winfield S. Hancock is hereby assigned to the command of the Department of the Cumberland. The Secretary of War ad interim will give the necessary instructions to carry this order into effect.

[Signed,] ANDREW JOHNSON.

Second. In pursuance of the foregoing order of the President of the United States, Major Gen. G H. Thomas will, on receipt of the order, turn over his command to the officer next in rank to himself, and proceed to New Orleans, Louisiana, to relieve Major General P. H. Sheridan of the command of the Fifth Military District.

Third. Maj. Gen. P. H. Sheridan, on being relieved from the command of the Fifth Military District by Maj. Gen Geo. H. Thomas, will proceeded to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and relieve Maj. Gen. W. S. Hancock, in command of the Department of the Missouri.

Fourth. Maj. Gen. W. S. Hancock, on being relieved from command of the Department of the Missouri, by Maj. Gen. P. H. Sheridan, will proceed to Louisville, Kentucky, and assume command of the Cumberland.

Fifth. Maj. Gen. G. H. Thomas will continue to execute all orders he may find in force in the Fifth Military District at the time of his assuming command of it, unless authorized by the General of the Army to annul, alter or modify them.

Sixth. Maj. Gen. Sheridan, before relieving Major General Hancock, will report in person at these Headquaters, By command of General Grant.

[Signed,] E. D. TOWNSEND,
[Official.] Assis't Adjutant General.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24, 1867.

The President to day on the recommendation of General Grant, suspended the execution of Order No. 77, assigning General Thomas to the command of the Fifth District, in lieu of General Sheridan. The reason for this action on the part of the Executive, is on account of the ill health of General Thomas, who is now undergoing medical treatment at one of the springs in West Virginia. In view of this fact it was deemed highly improper to order him to New Orleans, where the yellow fever is raging in an epidemic form.

An Administration evening paper says that it is not definitely known whether General Sheridan will be permitted to remain ad interim, or whether some other officer will be assigned to the command. It is rumored that General Hancock will be selected for the position.

The order relieving General Sickles from the command of the North Carolina Military District, will probably be issued during the present week. As things now look, General Canby will be appointed in his place.

The Tribune correspondent at the Capitol says Thad Stevens' health is so poor that it is extremely doubtful whether he will ever be able to go to Washington again.

Give the Girls a Chance.

The New York Sun has some suggestions in regard to the employment of females, which will apply with equal force here and elsewhere as in New York. The Sun expresses the conviction that fully three-fourths of the retail stores in that city might employ young women in the capacity of clerks, and this, we are told, has been demonstrated by ample experience, and conclusive evidence can be seen at any time in certain stores where female clerks are now employed. The editor says:

"The latter are certainly as active, industrious, faithful, and generally as competent in every respect as male clerks, while at the same time they are willing to work for comparatively small wages. Then, why is it that their services are not more generally called into requisition? The proportion of female clerks in the class of stores and shops where they might be employed is not one-twentieth of the whole. Go into an up town dry-goods fancy store and you will find plenty of young men behind the counters, but rarely the other sex. Now, there are in this city thousand of young women dependent upon their own labor for a living, who would be glad of an opportunity to obtain a situation in the retail stores. They are now obliged to work in manufacturing establishments, or else to sew for a pittance at home—in either case finding but little to make life enjoyable. Why will not merchants and shopkeepers generally try the plan of employing female clerks? We cannot account for it, except on the ground of prejudice—the same which nearly every idea encounters that proposes and innovation upon an established custom. It has been customary to employ only men for the business of selling goods, and the idea that they only must be used is apparently deep seated in the mind of employers. In this age of enlightenment, however, such prejudice should not exist. Every person, whether male or female, white or black, should be employed to the best advantage in every respect, regardless of how things were hitherto. There is no doubt that girls make good clerks, and that they are well qualified to fill positions that are now occupied by men who might better be otherwise employed. Therefore, we say, give the girls a chance."

TERRIBLE RAILROAD DISASTER IN IRELAND.—A terrible railroad casualty occurred at Bray Head, Wicklow county, Ireland, August 9th. The express train from Dublin for Wicklow, when at the above named locality, ran off the track and eight passenger coaches were precipitated into the sea. The railroad at that point runs along the summit of a high bluff. The loss of life was frightful. Only one person on the whole train, a man named Morris, escaped alive.

The scene of the disaster is the lofty bluff known as Bray Head, which rises almost abruptly from the sea to the height of many hundred feet, and its wild and savage beauty is a prominent feature in the scenery of the famous Dublin Bay. The railroad track is cut in the solid rock at a great height above the sea, to which there is an abrupt descent. The curve is rather sharp round the Head, and trains generally run slow in going round, and passengers looking out of the windows see a wall of rock on one side, and empty air on the other, while far below the waves may be seen breaking on the shore. Few can have visited the spot without thinking, with a shudder of horror, of the possibility of such an accident as has now occurred, and it almost seems impossible that even one passenger should have escaped. The cars must have fallen directly into the sea, as the rock is almost straight down, and there is but little margin at the base.

☞Advices received from Shanghai give the following accounts of a conflict between two steamers of the American squadron, in Chinese waters, and pirates of the Island of Formosa. The United States authorities having received neither satisfaction nor apology for the murder of the crew of the American bark Royer, the men of war Hartford and Wyoming were ordered to the scene of outrage, on the Island of Formosa, and sailed early in June. On arriving off the shore, demand was made for the surrender of the murderers, which was not complied with. Meantime it was apparent the natives were preparing for a fight, and the shore was vigorously shelled by both vessels. Several boat loads of sailors and marines subsequently effected a landing, and a sharp fight ensued with the Formosans, which lasted over five hours. The heat was intense, and fifteen officers and men are reported to have been sun struck. Lieut. Slidell Mackenzie, one of the landing party, was shot and died of his wounds at nightfall. The fighting party were withdrawn and the bombardment was resumed and continued until the natives disappeared. The Hartford and Wyoming then weighed anchor and sailed for Shanghai, where they arrived on the 18th of June.

NEGRO JURIES IN TEXAS.—By military law in Texas negroes are made to sit on juries. Recently four-fifths of the jurymen there have been negroes. A letter from Houston, Texas, says:

God protect me from such juries!—At the close of the week of court in Houston the negro jurors were paid off at the rate of two dollars per day for their services. And on the Monday morning following, when court opened the negroes literally besieged the court house to get on the jury. One old negro stopped the judge on his way to court and begged for a place on the jury, urging his almost helpless condition, being a cripple, as a reason why he should be selected, and further proposed to take the job of sitting on the jury by the year! When told that the court would be in session only for three or four weeks, he seemed to think that this was an artful dodge of his honor to avoid closing the contract and proposed to take the job by the year for one dollar per day! This is the pure and undefiled channel through which verdicts now flow.

SPEAR'S PATENT
Fruit Preserving Solution,
FOR THE PRESERVATION OF ALL KINDS OF FRUITS, VEGETABLES, JELLIES, WINES, CIDER, &c.
Without Sugar, and without Expensive Sealing or Air-tight Jars.
One Bottle will Preserve 128 Pounds of Fruit, or 48 Gallons of Wine or Cider.
CHEAP, HEALTHFUL AND EFFECTUAL.

This Solution, when properly used, effectually prevents fermentation or decay of Fruits, and, by the most simple and inexpensive process, every variety may be kept in a fresh and perfectly wholesome condition the year round. It is no new and uncertain experiment, but has been in practical use for the past eight years, yet has been, for the most part, kept from the public for the purpose of ascertaining the result of a series of experiments, all of which have proved the validity of all that is now confidently claimed for it.

Fruits preserved by this Solution are as good as the best "canned" fruits, while the use of the solution avoids the trouble of sealing, costly jars or cans, keeping from the air and light, frequent examinations, and the many other troubles and annoyances well known to every housewife.

Fresh native fruits the year round have become almost a household necessity, both on account of their healthfulness and as a luxury; and by the use of this solution this great luxury is within the reach of every family, rich or poor, in the land, as all kinds of fruit may be preserved during pleasure at less than one-half the expense of any other method.

The solution is perfectly free from objection on the score of health. Professor Bache, under date "U. S. Naval Laboratory, New York, September 14, 1864," says: "By direction of the Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, I have examined your Preserving Solution, and meats and fruits preserved by it. I have a high opinion of its value, and believe it can be used in the preservation of those articles in a fresh state for the army and navy very advantageously. The Solution is perfectly free from objection on the score of healthfulness."

Other certificates from distinguished chemists, confirming the above, can be seen and had where the solution is sold. It is claimed:

1. That Spear's Solution preserves the flavor of all kinds of native fruits more perfectly and durably than can be done in any other way, and at much less trouble and expense;

2. That the use of the Solution renders it unnecessary to use air tight or expensive jars or cans, and also avoids the inconvenience of hermetically sealing and keeping from the air, heat, light, etc.;

3. That the use of the Solution admits of the keeping of the fruit in vessels of any size, even in kegs or barrels if desirable;

4. That the use of the Solution allows the shipment of the fruit by salt or fresh water, in the hottest weather, without danger of loss or injury;

5. That it is invaluable in the preserving of Tomato, Peach, Pear, Apple, Quince and other Sauces, Wines and Cider; also for all kinds of Spiced Fruits; that these alone recommend it to every family, and to use it once will guarantee their approval.

Brief Items.

—The apple crop appears to be very poor in this neighborhood.

—Query: Who is the "woman in white?" See outside of this sheet.

—Peaches from Philadelphia were selling here last week at from $2,50 to $4,00 per bushel as to quality.

—Watermelons were in town pretty plentifully last week from Philadelphia, but of a poor quality. Much better are expected this week.

—The colored M. E. Church of Zion will hold their camp meeting at McCaban's Grove, commencing on Friday the 6th of September.

—We had a heavy rain on Saturday last in this immediate neighborhood and for miles around us, but we have not heard of it doing any damage.

—Housekeepers should lay in their winter supply of coal now, as a month's delay may compel them to pay a higher price.

—To preserve fruits, vegetables, jellies, wines, cider, etc., etc. See advertisement of Spear's Fruit-Preserving Solution in another column. tf

—Mr. James Bricker lost another excellent cow on the railroad above town, last week. The 8 P. M. fast train killed her.

—The fifteenth fair of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Society will be held at Pittsburg on the 24th, 25th, 26th and 27th days of September next.

—A foot race came off at Johnstown last week between a Welshman named Davis and an Irishman named Redmond. The Welshman won the stake of $115.

—William Johnston, a livery stable keeper at Hollidaysburg, was convicted last week in Pittsburg, as guilty of dealing in counterfeit money. Application for a new trial has been made.

—There will be Camp Meetings at Bloody Run and Fisher's Summit on the Broad Top railroad, to commence on Friday next. An excursion train will leave Huntingdon on Sunday morning next, at 7 20.

—On Tuesday last, a colored man while walking on the railroad track near the coal wharf above town, was caught by the catcher of a locomotive and thrown from the track. He was considerably injured.

—Joseph, a son of Mr. Danl. Artley, of this place, cut an ugly gash in his head one day last week. by diving against a rock in a stream near Rockville. He is now at home receiving proper attention.

—There is some talk of making arrangements to have premium games of ball played during the Fair. If our players take it in hand something handsome will be offered and clubs from a distance may be expected to be on hand.

—The camp meeting at Manor Hill is in full progress, and is meeting with success. There are over sixty tents on the ground and on Sunday last we think there were at least three thousand persons in attendance from near and from far.

—A fracas occurred between two "American citizens of African descent," on one of our streets last week, which wound up in a challenge for a full and free fight out of town. Both the combatants were going out when a large and promiscuous crowd collected, and the fight was postponed.

—A young man in the last stages of consumption, on his way from Texas to visit a friend in Philadelphia, died on the cars between Johnstown and Altoona, one day last week. On Wednesday a child on board the Philadelphia Express west, died in the arms of its mother, who was on her way home to Pittsburg, a short distance below Johnstown. The lady was also very ill.

Dangerous Counterfeit.

A number of our exchanges are noticing the advent of a new and dangerous counterfeit—National currency—of the denomination of $5.00, which will surely mislead careless handlers of money, and even the careful, without close observance. As the stuff may be offered in this community, we give our readers the benefit of the following description: On the left hand end of the note the wrist of the left arm of Columbus is scarcely visible, whereas in the genuine it is distinct. At the top read "This note is secured by bonds." The letters "B" and "Y" are too far apart, and the "O" in "bonds" is under the "Y," whereas, the "S" in the same word is immediately under the "Y" in the genuine. The general appearance of the bill is a close imitation of the genuine.

Get Ready for the Fair.

It is to be hoped the farmers and all others who feel an interest in annual exhibitions of stock, manufactures, etc., etc., etc., will make arrangements to attend the Fair, which will be held first week in October. The premium list will be published in a few days.

☞The Committee to prepare Premium List, and appoint Judges for the Fair, will meet at the office of R. Milton Speer, on Saturday, 31st inst., at 10 o'clock, A. M.

COURT HOUSE,
Monday evening, Aug. 12, 1867.

Convention met at the hour appointed and on account of the absence of the President, Vice President F. H. Lane took the chair and called on the Rev. Mr. Chenoweth to offer prayer.

Minutes of the afternoon session read and approved.

On motion the Convention proceeded to consider the resolutions reported by the business committee. The following are the RESOLUTIONS.

1. Resolved, That as there is no great question before the National mind at this time, of superior importance (except the Christian religion) to the consummation of the Temperance reform, and as human skill is insufficient, we therefore reverently implore the Divine Wisdom to guide our counsels, and His blessing upon our efforts to banish this great evil from this Commonwealth.

2. That we consider it of the first importance that the rising generation be carefully guarded against the evils of Intemperance, and earnestly recommend that the subject be brought to the attention of Sabbath School Superintendents and Teachers, with the request that they co-operate with us in securing the pledge of the children under their charge to total abstinence.

3. That the Managers of this County Society are hereby requested and it is their duty to encourage and provide for the holding of public meetings in their respective townships, through their Pastors, Sabbath Schools, Churches, &c., &c., and to call out speakers for such occasions and recommend the Temperance pledge for signers, and that each township report quarterly to the President of this Society the number of meetings held and names enrolled.

4. That as the diffusion of light and intelligence it essential in every moral reform, we therefore recommend to all The National Temperance Advocate, and The Youth's Temperance Banner, published by J. N. Stearns, No. 172 Williams street, New York city, as an efficient means of prosecuting the work; also Temperance Banner, published at Selinsgrove, Snyder county, Pa.

5. That the licensing of acknowledged evils is wrong in morals and ruinous in legislation, and that a good law is a potent instrument in forming a good public sentiment, and a bad law corrupts and depraves it, we therefore can never give our consent to a system which shall give the legal sanction of the State to the traffic in intoxicating drinks as a beverage; a business so ruinous to the morals and best interests of the people, and that prohibition is the only safe legislation that can be enforced by practice.

6. That to the traffic in intoxicating drinks as a beverage may be traced a very large portion of the pauperism, insanity, crime and casualties of the country, and that against these evils as a civil right the people should be protected by wholesome legislation, and that as a license gives freedom and apparent respectability to the traffic and denies the proper protection to the people; therefore, it is the right and duty of the people of this Commonwealth, in self-defense, by legislation and other suitable means, to bring such traffic to an end.

7. That in the opinion of this Convention, it is inconsistent with the obligation voluntarily assumed by professors of Christianity, or as members of any temperance organization, to manufacture, sell or use, as a beverage, intoxicating drinks, or sign an application for a license or rent their property to retail the same, or in any way give countenance to the traffic.

8. That we earnestly request all political parties to nominate good well tried Temperance men for civil office.

9. That as the pulpit is a potent instrument in this country, in creating a purefied public sentiment, we request the ministers of this county to preach on the subject of Temperance in their respective charges on the third Sabbath in September, or at their earliest convenience.

10. That when we adjourn we adjourn to meet on the first Monday night of November Court in this place, and that the Secretary, with the officers and managers of this Society, unite in the call for a mass meeting at that time, and that they select speakers for the occasion.

11. That these proceedings be published in the county papers.

The Convention then proceeded to consider the resolutions seriatim, when, after the reading of the first, it was moved that it be adopted. The resolution was discussed by Mr. Chenoweth and Mr. Miles, the latter offering an amendment to the resolution which was lost and the original adopted.

Pending the consideration of the first resolution the President elect, Mr. Scott, made his appearance, and was invited to preside and also to favor us with an address. He declined the former, having as he said only a few minutes to remain in the Convention, but favored the Convention with a short address, after which he excused himself, and retired from the room, when the Convention resumed the consideration of the resolutions before it.

The 2d, 3d, 4th, and 5th were adopted without debate; the 6th was discussed by Messrs. Miles, Barnhart and Kerr, and adopted; the 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th were adopted without debate.

A motion was made by the Rev. Mr. Kerr and adopted, that all the temperance organizations in the county be requested to be present at our next Convention, and participate in the proceedings.

On motion the Convention adjourned, Rev. Thomas Barnhart pronouncing the benediction.

THE DEAD LADY BROUGHT TO LIFE.—An interesting and astonishing event transpired on the 22d ult., at the house of Mr George Chandler, a farmer living near the Lowell road, between Nashua and Tyngsboro, Mass. A physician, Dr. Stroinski, stopped on the afternoon of the day mentioned at Mr. C.'s house to feed his horse. On entering the house, Mrs. Chandler informed the doctor that her daughter Susan died on Saturday, and that the body had been placed in a coffin for interment on Sunday. The doctor on looking into the coffin, remarked that the girl was not dead, but only in a fit. He ordered the removal of the body, and placed it in a warm bath. After a long struggle the girl was brought to life. After leaving some medicine the doctor took his departure. On the following day—the one assigned for the funeral—the resuscitated lady voided a tape worm measuring twenty-eight feet in length; and instead of burying Miss Susan Chandler, the parents interred the cause of all her troubles.

☞It is said the Indians on the Plains have an ingenious way of setting fire to houses with their arrows. They wrap with a rag some powder on the heads of their arrow, and on the tip of their arrow-head place a percussion cap. When the arrow strikes the object to be fired, the cap is exploded and the powder and rag ignited. The rag burns long enough to set any combustible with which it may come in contact on fire.

WANTED.

500 Agents to canvass for a work entitled "Nojoque," written by Hinton R. Helper, author of the "Impending Crisis of the South." The object of the author in this work is to show the great distinction between the white and black races. He denounces negro political and social equality, and says he can no longer act with a party that would willingly destroy the great line of distinction between the white and black races which God himself has established. Every person should secure a copy of this work.

ALSO, 500 Agents wanted to circulate the "Youth's History of the War," the only history from a Democratic standpoint. Those desiring agencies should address

BEALE'S
Late Powell's Embrocation,
For all Diseases Incident to HORSES, CATTLE, and the HUMAN FLESH, Requiring the use of an External Application.

This new Compound, prepared by a practical Chemist having a full knowledge of all the medical virtues of each ingredient that enters into its composition, is warranted to exceed anything of the kind ever yet offered to the Public as an external application for the diseases for which it is recommended. We are satisfied that it will work its own road into the confidence of all who use it, and those who try it once will never be without it, and therefore we rely on experience as the best test of its usefulness. It is pronounced by Farriers, and all who have tried it to be the best application ever used. This Embrocation has been put up for over eight years, and it is only through the increasing demand and urgent request of my friends and the Public that I send it forth as the grand remedial agent for the various diseases to which that noble and useful animal, the horse, is subject.

Many remedies have been offered to the Public under different forms, some of these are injurious, others at best of little use, and many wholly improper to answer the purposes for which they are recommended.

A judicious and really useful composition, free from those objections, has therefore long been desired by many gentlemen who have valuable horses, and are unwilling to trust them to the care of designing and pretended Farriers. Their wishes are at length fully gratified, by Dr. Beale being prevailed upon to allow this valuable Embrocation (which has proved so efficacious to the various diseases) to be prepared and brought out to the public.

This Embrocation was extensively used by the Government during the war.

Thoughts for the Farmer.

About the Weather.

If the sun rise red and fiery, expect wind and rain.

If at sun rising it be cloudy, and the clouds vanish away as the sun riseth higher, it is a sure sign of fair weather.

Likewise, if the sun setteth red, it is a sign of fair weather. If it set in a muddy, misty color, it is a sign of rain.

If the moon shine clear, and not compassed about with mists, it will be fair weather.

If the moon be compassed about with a circle, like a great wheel, or is misty and dim, wind or rain follows, or snow within twenty four hours.

The stars more bright than ordinary ni summer, signify great wind and wet.

If they twinkle or blaze in winter, the wind north or east, is a sign of a great frost. When they are seen to fall or shoot, is a sign of a great rain and winds.

If the clouds are round and of a dapple-gray color, and the wind north or east, fair weather for two or three days after.

If the clouds appear like towers or rocks, signify great showers.

If clouds that are small grow bigger and bigger, is a sign of much rain; but if great clouds waste and grow less, it is a sign of fair weather.

WHAT IS PROGRESSIVE AGRICULTURE.—The New York Observer answers this question in a few words, but very comprehensively, as follows:

Under its influence spring up tasty and convenient dwellings, adorned with shrubs and flowers, and beautiful within with the smiles of happy wives, tidy children in the lap of thoughtful age—broad hearts and acts, as well as words of welcome. Progressive agriculture builds barns and puts gutters on them, builds stables for cattle and raises roots to feed them. It grafts wild apple trees, by the meadow with pippins or greenings; it sets out new orchards and takes care of old ones. It drains low lands, cuts down bushes, buys a mower, house tools and wagons, keeps good fences and practices soiling. It makes hens lay, chickens live, and prevents swine from rooting up meadows. Progressive agriculture keeps on hand plenty of dry fuel, and brings in the oven wood for the women. It ploughs deeply, sows plentifully, harrows evenly, and prays for the blessings of Heaven.

* * *

DRINKING AT MEALS.—When fat meats or sauces composed partly of butter are taken, and cold drink right after, the butter and fat are rendered concrete and separated from the rest of the aliment. This congested oily matter, being lighter than the remaining contents of the stomach, swims on top of the food, often causing heavy, uneasg, painful sensations about the cardia and breast, and sometimes a feeling of scalding and anxiety. At other times, when the stomach regains its heat, the fatter matter is rejected by little and little, from weak stomachs, in oily repurgition, which is very disagreeable. In such cases, a little compound of hartshorn, with a glass of warm water an sugar, will convert the fat into soap and afford instant relief—Sir James Murray's Medical Essays.

* * *

BASEMENT STABLES.—"What is the judgment of our Farmers' Club, as to the healthiness of stables in the basement of a barn?"—W. H. Bishop.

S. Edward Todd answered: "That stables in the basement of a barn are quite as healthy as stables above the level of the ground, if they are kept properly ventilated and cleaned. The great objection of stables in a basement is there is not sufficient attention paid to ventilation. If well ventilated, however, such stables are always cooler in the summer for stock, and warmer in the winter than those that are constructed on a level with the ground."

* * *

☞ An exchange says: "A neighbor of ours set one hundred and fifty trees eighteen years ago, on good sandy loam land, and has tended them well. They are thrifty handsome trees, but he has not obtained fruit enough from them to supply a family of ten persons. We set as many trees at the same time, on a granite soil, have tended them well, and cropped the land heavily every year, and have gathered two hundred barrels in a season. Why the difference? Who can tell? One is a granite soil, the other a rich sandy loam. Ours was high land, the neighbor's is on a level between hills and low lands."

* * *

SOMETHING NEW.—A neighbor of mine had a very rough cellar bottom and did not want to go to the expense of the cement, so he took his coal ashes and mixed it with water, to an ordinary thickness of mortar. It does not matter how many lumps of stones there are. Put it on about four inches thick; let it lie twenty four hours, then stamp it with a heavy block of wood three or four times a day, until it is perfectly hard. It is better than cement, as it will not crack or scale off. —Cor. American Farmer.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on Southeast corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.

PROF. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all these complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficiency. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, appliable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.
